Claims 1-50 are presented for examination.

Applicant's information disclosure statement filed September 10, 2001 has been received and entered.

Double Patenting

The nonstatutory double patenting rejection is based on a judicially created doctrine grounded in public policy (a policy reflected in the statute) so as to prevent the unjustified or improper timewise extension of the "right to exclude" granted by a patent and to prevent possible harassment by multiple assignees. See In re Goodman, 11 F.3d 1046, 29 USPQ2d 2010 (Fed. Cir. 1993); In re Longi, 759 F.2d 887, 225 USPQ 645 (Fed. Cir. 1985); In re Van Ornum, 686 F.2d 937, 214 USPQ 761 (CCPA 1982); In re Vogel, 422 F.2d 438, 164 USPQ 619 (CCPA 1970); and, In re Thorington, 418 F.2d 528, 163 USPQ 644 (CCPA 1969).

A timely filed terminal disclaimer in compliance with 37 CFR 1.321© may be used to overcome an actual or provisional rejection based on a nonstatutory double patenting ground provided the conflicting application or patent is shown to be commonly owned with this application. See 37 CFR 1.130(b).

Effective January 1, 1994, a registered attorney or agent of record may sign a terminal disclaimer. A terminal disclaimer signed by the assignee must fully comply with 37 CFR 3.73(b).

Claims 1-50 are rejected under the judicially created doctrine of double patenting over claims 1-71 of U. S. Patent No. 6,291,500 since the claims, if allowed, would improperly extend the "right to exclude" already granted in the patent.

The subject matter claimed in the instant application is fully disclosed in the patent and is covered by the patent since the patent and the application are claiming common subject matter, as follows:

Art Unit: 1614

The instant invention, the formulation contains an anti-fungal agent or a plurality of anti-fungal agents and can be in a solid, liquid, or aerosol form.

Furthermore, there is no apparent reason why applicant was prevented from presenting claims corresponding to those of the instant application during prosecution of the application which matured into a patent. See In re Schneller, 397 F.2d 350, 158 USPQ 210 (CCPA 1968). See also MPEP § 804.

Claim Rejections - 35 U.S.C. § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims 1-50 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Eisen (AK) and Ramos et al. (APPPPP).

Eisen teaches the use of a combination containing steroids and antifungal agents to treat inflammatory disorders, such as mucositis (see the abstract). Note particularly column 4, lines 41-49 teaches various antifungal agents which includes the applicant's preferred antifungal agents used to treat mucositis.

Art Unit: 1614

Ramos et al. teach an oral administration of short-chain fatty acids used to reduce intestinal mucositis. Note one of the short-chain fatty acids used in propionic acid, another one of the applicant's preferred antifungal agent.

The instant invention differs from the cited references in that the cited references do not teach the specific amounts of the antifungal agents are used to treat intestinal mucositis. However, to determine an amount having optimum effect against intestinal mucositis is well within the level of one having ordinary skill in the art, and the skilled artisan would have been motivated to determine optimum amounts to get the maximum effect of the claimed compounds.

Claims 1-50 are not allowed.
